Emory University

Laney Graduate School

At the James T. Laney School of Graduate Studies, we are committed to graduate education that provides students with deep expertise in their chosen fields, creativity to cross disciplinary boundaries, and courage to take on the most important and complex problems of our time. As a world-class research university, we recognize that innovative research and scholarship must include diversity in thought, experience and culture. We foster an environment of inclusion that ensures the range of educational benefits that can only come from diversity across the academic community. Our graduate faculty is a diverse group of distinguished researchers and teachers, dedicated to both advancing inquiry and to teaching the next generation of scholars. Our university is right-sized: small enough to allow for meaningful human interactions within and among programs, yet large enough to support a full array of resources and opportunities across a comprehensive intellectual landscape.

At the James T. Laney School of Graduate Studies, we believe that today’s graduate students are tomorrow’s intellectual leaders. We expect our students to challenge established conventions, to ask unexpected questions and to articulate bold new perspectives. In return, we commit ourselves to providing each and every one of our students the support they need to succeed at Emory and beyond.

University of Glasgow

Graduate Programs
Established in 1451, the University of Glasgow is one of the ancient Scottish universities and the fourth oldest university in the English speaking world. The University of Glasgow is one of the largest universities in the United Kingdom with approximately 23,000 students (roughly 6,500 postgraduates). Glasgow is a founding member of the prestigious Russell Group of 20 major research universities in the UK, and is ranked in the world’s top 100 institutions. In addition to outstanding research efforts, the university was ranked in the top 3 in the UK for student satisfaction and in the top 10 for teaching quality. With over 3,500 overseas students from around 120 countries (more than 500 from the USA), the university has a tradition of welcoming international students and has developed an extensive support network for them.

The University of Glasgow offers hundreds of postgraduate degree programs in a wide variety of subject areas. Most postgraduate taught degree programs are 1 year in length and the university offers several scholarship opportunities for U.S. students.

Kennesaw State University

Graduate College
Located just 20 miles northwest of downtown Atlanta, Kennesaw State University is home to some of the nation’s fastest-growing professional graduate programs and a growing center for cutting-edge academic research.

The university is focused on continual improvements to the caliber of our programs and engagement with the community at-large. A steadfast commitment to the constant development of infrastructure, technology, and research facilities makes Kennesaw State University the leader in graduate education in Georgia.

We offer over 40 graduate degree programs which include innovative doctoral degrees in nursing, business administration, and education.

New York University

Silver School of Social Work
The NYU Silver School of Social Work offers the BS, MSW, PhD and continuing education programs, and is considered one of the nation’s leading educational institutions for social work professionals. The MSW program is distinctive for its strong focus on teaching clinical skills. The program focuses on developing relationship-centered practice with individuals, groups, and families. Strong connections are created between classroom content and the real-life human needs. Curricula are designed around this idea, and selection of faculty is based in part on their ability to accomplish this goal. The Silver School has the finest cadre of clinically experienced faculty in the New York City area. We will transform your innate caring into the constructive, relationship-centered practice of social work in order for you to develop a satisfying career that enhances the meaning of your own life as you help shape the lives of others.

University of Miami

School of Law

From its beginnings in 1926, Miami has emerged as one of the nation’s leading institutions of legal education. Faculty members, who are leaders in their scholarly and professional fields, offer a highly talented and diverse student body a rich and challenging curriculum along with a wide variety of professional skills training opportunities. Miami’s version of globalization has a distinctive North-South cast, but its commerce — like that of Latin America and the Caribbean — is inextricably linked to the economies of Canada, Europe, and Asia as well.

University of Michigan Law School

Law School

Michigan Law School in Ann Arbor is one of the world’s finest institutions of legal education. Our graduates are leaders serving with distinction in this nation and beyond.

Pepperdine University

School of Public Policy

Pepperdine University’s School of Public Policy is built on a distinctive philosophy of nurturing leaders to use the tools of analysis and policy design to effect successful implementation and real change. This requires critical insights that only a broad exposure to great ideas, courageous thinkers, and extraordinary leaders can encourage. It is based on the conviction that an elevated and elevating culture, as well as personal moral certainties, are the valid concern of higher education and as important as the tools of analysis. This unique perspective is reflected in the curriculum and unashamedly differentiates it from most other public policy programs.

Regent University

School of Law

Regent’s mission is distinctive among ABA-accredited law schools. We seek to provide students with an outstanding legal education and an appreciation of the linkages between Christian principles, the legal system and students’ responsibilities as future attorneys. The Admissions Committee seeks to enroll men and women who are highly motivated and committed to the School’s mission as a Christian graduate institution. Programs include traditional 3-year and accelerated 2-year tracks. National titles include 2006 ABA Moot Court and 2007 ABA National Negotiations champions.
